Message from the PRESIDENT

AMDG

Dear Friends,

This past summer I was asked to lead the Ignatian Pilgrimage for Jesuit educators to Spain and Italy. Three U of D Jesuit faculty members joined thirty other faculty from Jesuit schools across the Midwest on a journey to Loyola, Xavier, Manresa, Montserrat, and Rome. The pilgrimage is one part of an overall program to share the spirituality of St. Ignatius with the lay men and women who carry on the Jesuit tradition in our schools.

What struck me this summer was the simplicity of what Ignatius wanted to accomplish. In many ways, his vision was so very simple: to help people find God. Yet the legacy he left behind was profound. Perhaps the reason for this was that he was always striving for the Magis—in Latin, Magis means “the more” or “the greater.” His life was characterized from beginning to end by the concept of Magis—that is, doing more, or doing what he was doing in a better, more profound way. Many of you might recognize Magis because it is the root of the word Majorem; and we are all very familiar with AMDG, which Ignatius himself used as a “header” on much of his writing.

As we were traveling, I had many opportunities to reflect on the profound impact Magis has had on so many alumni, parents and friends of U of D Jesuit. So many of you have been, often without knowing it, striving for the Magis. I always tell people that the best part of being at U of D Jesuit is that I have been fortunate to meet so many wonderful men and women whose lives have been characterized by striving for “the more, the greater good.”

In short, striving for the Magis is simply part of who we are. In that way, our community is a great sign of hope for the world to see. With that in mind, let us continue to recommit ourselves to living out the precious gift that St. Ignatius has given to each and every one of us: the desire to always strive for the “greater glory of God.”

God bless,

KARL J. KISER, S.J.

President

MISSION STATEMENT

University of Detroit Jesuit High School and Academy is committed to providing the highest quality of Jesuit college preparatory education to young men in southeast Michigan. U of D Jesuit, in collaboration with parents, will challenge its students to go beyond academic excellence, to be reflective, to be committed to the service of personal faith and the promotion of justice: to be “Men for Others.”

DEVELOPMENT

Dear Friends,

The following letters are a few examples of the positive transformative effects the school is having on the lives of our alumni, parents, and friends.

"I received this check as a graduation gift from a family member who was hoping that I would send it to any charity of my choice. Naturally, I sent it to U of D Jesuit. This place has changed me in so many ways, and I can only imagine some of the things it has done for others. I know that I want more kids to experience what I have, and I hope that this small donation will help a student receive an education at U of D Jesuit." (Graduate of 2014)

"My memories of my four years at U of D High represent one of the best parts of my life. The Jesuits, the phenomenal young classmates, the personal and study discipline (that I most surely needed), the fun, the growth into adulthood, the preparation for life's journey, the value system, the grand education, the wonderful role models, the friendships – and the Catholic Faith formation. I thank God every day that my parents had the foresight and made the sacrifices to send me to U of D High." (Graduate of 1959)

"Thank you for allowing me to hear the stories of my father's past. Recently, we received Fr. Kiser's letter notifying him of the passing of one of his classmates. The letters seem to arrive more frequently these days. Upon hearing the name on this letter, my father told me that was one of his best friends at U of D High. Over the next several days, he shared with me the stories and lessons he learned which guided his decisions throughout his life. It was a special time for me to listen and learn more about my father." (Daughter of a graduate of 1946)

There have been many changes in society over the generations, but our core values remain intact. Open to Growth, Intellectually Competent, Religious, Loving, and Committed to Justice are the core values we live at U of D Jesuit. Your generosity allows us to instill these values to future generations of students and their parents. Also, your participation in making a gift to The High demonstrates to others the vitality of our school and its mission. We are deeply grateful to all the benefactors we acknowledge in the President's Report.

If you are interested in sharing your story, or in making a gift to The High, please contact me at thomas.totte@uofdjesuit.org or 313.927.2347.

Thank you again for all you for U of D Jesuit.

Who's New At The High? - Newest Faculty & Staff

Daniel Babcock
(English Department)

Graduating from Michigan State in 2007, Daniel Babcock completed his student teaching at Cass Tech before moving to Maryland where he worked at Franklin High School in Baltimore County for 6 years. Additionally, Daniel was the coach of the quiz bowl team and appeared twice on WBAL's "It's Academic", a Jeopardy-like quiz show for high school students in the D.C. - Baltimore area. Daniel earned his master's degree from St. John's College in Annapolis in 2012. His time there strengthened his content knowledge, and helped him to reshape his own personal philosophy of education.

Daniel's father and one of his uncles graduated from U of D Jesuit, so he knows the quality of education young men experience at "The High". He is excited to work in the Detroit community again, and looks forward to working in a school focused on Ignatian spirituality.

Rosemarie Gonzalez
(Office of Faith & Service)

Rosey is a product of a Catholic school education and her first teaching job was as a high school math teacher at Aquinas HS in Southgate. The sense of community, the importance of service, and the strong belief that "the more you are given, the more is expected of you" were values that she learned in her family and schools. After teaching at Aquinas for 3 years, she left to start a family. Rosey is the proud mother of 4 strong-willed, gifted children who are making their marks in the worlds of education, marketing, and public health. While they were growing up, teaching again called her, though, and she worked in her parish as a member of the Confirmation team for 15 years.

When the local public school started to deviate from the school's mission because of financial reasons, Rosey became a member of a team of teachers that opened Gaudior Academy charter school in 1991. She ultimately became the school's director. She left Gaudior after 21 years. When she was told about the Faith & Service opportunity at U of D Jesuit, she applied and is happy to be here.

Michelle Gaunt
(Fine Arts & Math Departments)

Michelle Gaunt is honored to join the University of Detroit Jesuit team directing the Choir and String Orchestra, as well as teaching Academy math. Michelle graduated from Walled Lake Schools and attended Michigan State University, where she studied Music Education, Math, and French. She has a passion for traveling and enjoyed a summer abroad in Tours, France where she studied French language, literature, and culture. She has also completed her mission to visit all 50 states with her family, giving her a true appreciation of road trips and the beauty of our country's landscapes. Michelle's love for music has brought her to perform in musical theater, opera productions, and in many ensembles. With the Michigan State University Women's Chamber Ensemble, Michelle had the wonderful opportunity to sing at Carnegie Hall in New York City. Michelle taught middle school choir for the Grand Rapids Public Schools and previously worked with the Brighton Area School's Choirs. Her varied experiences make her incredibly excited to teach at the University of Detroit Jesuit and share her passion for music, math, and learning with others.

Brendan Dillon
(Math Department)

Brendan Dillon was raised in Lathrup Village and attended Southfield Public Schools. He then attended the University of Michigan, where he earned a BA in History, as well as, completing the teacher certification process with a focus in secondary mathematics. He taught high school mathematics at the Winans Academy for Performing Arts in Detroit from 2004-2012. He took a brief hiatus from the profession to spend time at home with his two young children. During this time, Brendan completed a Masters of Arts degree in Mathematics at Wayne State. Now that his children are a little older, he is excited to return to the profession! Brendan is thrilled to be able to resume his career at U of D Jesuit. On a more personal note, Brendan enjoys spending time with Antonia, his wife of eight years, and his kids Donovan and Stella.

Edward Utter '10

(Math Department)

Edward Utter joins the Math Department to teach 9th and 10th grade Digital Literacy (formerly Computer Applications). Edward graduated from University of Detroit Jesuit in 2010 and is thrilled to return as a teacher. He recently finished an undergraduate degree in Creative Writing at the University of Michigan, where he also studied Computer Science. During his time in college, Edward worked with a team to design and develop a more game-like approach to education, and he quickly became enamored with the idea of teaching. He is excited to pass on his technological expertise and to give students the tools they need to best meet their full potential as Men for Others in a rapidly changing world. Edward currently lives in Ann Arbor, where he likes to spend his spare time writing short stories, designing games, honing his culinary skills, and finding a sense of wonder in all forms of creativity and self-improvement – something he hopes to share with his students.

Patrick Geraghty

(Theology Department)

Pat Geraghty received his BA from Niagara University with dual majors in English and Philosophy. He then received his MA in Theology from St. Michael's College in Toronto and his MA in counseling from the University of Toledo. Pat was an Oblate of St. Francis de Sales and served as a priest for 15 years. He has taught and did counseling at Aquinas, Benedictine, DePorres, and East Catholic High Schools. He taught at these schools because of how critically important he believed them to be. That is one of the many reasons he is particularly excited about teaching at U of D Jesuit. These schools did not abandon the city.

Pat has also coached Cross Country and Track for numerous years. He has been lucky enough to coach many All-State athletes and has had teams win four state championships. Pat is married with five children, two of whom attended U of D Jesuit. There is never a dull moment in his house.

Sarah Kost-Cox

(Jesuit Academy Counselor)

Sarah Rose Kost-Cox, joins the School Counseling Department, serving students in the Jesuit Academy. Sarah was born in Detroit and grew up in Roseville, Michigan. She is a graduate of Regina High School. From there, she attended Wayne State University, where she obtained a BA in Design and Merchandising. While working in her field, she maintained a close relationship with her high school Alma Mater and was a dance choreographer for their drama department. Her love for working with children and adolescents gave her the calling that resulted in her change of profession. This calling led her to Oakland University, where she obtained a MA in Counseling with an advanced specialization in School Counseling.

She comes to U of D Jesuit from the Troy school district, where she was a substitute counselor at Larson and Baker International Baccalaureate Middle School. When she is not working and has free time, Sarah enjoys reading, going to museums, being active in ballet and dance classes, and spending precious time with her son Elliott, husband Chris, and her messy dog Marty.

Catherine Lomas-Ermanni

(English Department)

Catherine Lomas-Ermanni is excited about returning to U of D Jesuit after a five-year hiatus. Catherine taught 12th, 9th, and 8th grade English at U of D Jesuit from 2000-2009 and served as Assistant Principal of the Jesuit Academy from 2007-2009. She holds a Bachelor of Arts in English from the University of Detroit and a Master of Arts in English from Oakland University. After leaving U of D Jesuit in 2009, Catherine served as a substitute teacher for Royal Oak Schools, taught part-time as an adjunct English instructor at Oakland Community College, and worked as a freelance writer for local publications. Catherine most recently taught English to grades 9 and 12 at Detroit Cristo Rey High School, located on the campus of Most Holy Redeemer church in Southwest Detroit. Although she found her experience at Detroit Cristo Rey to be rich and rewarding, she has greatly missed working with her colleagues at U of D Jesuit and being a part of the Jesuit mission. Catherine still enjoys reading English novels, cooking, and gardening. She and her husband, Michael, a counselor for Fraser Public Schools, live in Royal Oak.

Timothy Monck

(Social Studies Department)

Tim Monck joins the Social Studies Department as the new economics and world history teacher. He comes from University Prep Science & Math High School in Detroit, where he taught economics, history and civics. Prior to discovering that teaching is his calling, Tim lived all around the country during a career with the United States Coast Guard, most recently serving as the Commanding Officer of the rescue station on Belle Isle. His background in government service and work with organizations at the local, regional, and national levels brings a wealth of knowledge of history, economics, and how our government works to the classroom.

Tim is a graduate of Regis University where he earned a Master of Business Administration degree, and also holds a Master of Arts degree in teaching from the University of Michigan-Dearborn. In addition to working with young people Tim loves to read, listen to music, kayak, and spend time with his wife and dog.

Thomas Shermetaro
(Health/PE)

Tom joins the Science/Health/PE Department to teach Health, Physical Education, and Weights & Conditioning. Tom is not totally new to the U of D Jesuit community: for the past two years, he has been a JV and Assistant Varsity Lacrosse Coach. Tom attended Trine University where he received a Bachelor of Arts and Science degree in Social Studies and Psychology. He is currently pursuing a second Bachelor's degree and an endorsement in education at University of Detroit Mercy. One "blemish" on his credentials is that he comes to U of D Jesuit having graduated from that other Catholic school on Orchard Lake. Tom states that he has been inspired working with our Cubs on the athletic field, and looks forward to being part of the U of D Jesuit community full time.

Daniel Montingelli
(Math Department)

Dan Montingelli was born and raised in Montreal, Quebec but has been a proud Detroiter for almost 10 years. He currently lives in the city with his wife and beautiful 19-month-old baby girl. After graduating from Concordia University with an Economics degree, he worked in the non-profit community before pursuing his Master's in Education from Wayne State University. Dan has worked and lived in Australia and India. He has traveled extensively through Italy and Eastern Europe, visiting family and tracing his roots.

Dan has a passion for teaching math and has spent the past four years at Akiva in Southfield and Hamtramck High School. Outside of school you can find Dan pursuing his other passions- woodworking, soccer, cycling, camping and rock climbing.

Dan is excited to join the U of D Jesuit team. He appreciates and values the school's philosophy and sense of community, and loves that he can now bike to work!

Who's New At The High? - Alumni Volunteer Corps

The program founded in 1994 by then President, Fr. Timothy Shannon, S.J., provides an opportunity for alumni to use their talents and energies to benefit the U of D Jesuit Community on a daily basis. The AVC program offers a unique opportunity to influence students in many different ways and offers young alumni the chance to be "Men for Others." The AVC's benefit from living as a community in a school-owned house located near the campus, free utilities, a small living stipend, professional career advice, a wide range of work experience, the challenge to serve others and the chance to develop spiritually.

Why did you decide to become an AVC?

The decision to become an AVC was the result of a few factors, all coming together at the perfect time. The point I am in in my life in relation to my career goals really helped my decision, because not only would I be able to return to U of D, but I would be able to stay at home around family before venturing out into the world. I spent 6 years of my life at U of D, and I can honestly say they were the most instrumental years of my life in making me the man I am today. I'm overwhelmingly excited to be "home" at the high for one more school year with both the new students and my fellow '10 grads. It's good to be back.

Did you participate in any co-curriculars or athletics when you were a student at U of D Jesuit?

I played Soccer, Football, Basketball, and Baseball in various capacities while at the high. I also participated in numerous fall plays and spring musical productions, as well as the Focus: HOPE service projects. I never considered myself a 2:37 man (2:45 man now) and that fire to be involved is probably the reason why there are going to be a few activities I've forgotten to add to this list.

What do you hope to accomplish/learn during your year back at The High?

I am completely open to all of the possibilities and growth that await me at the high this year. I think that being on the opposite side of the faculty/student divide will allow for immense personal growth and maturation, and I have no doubt that I will be a much better man at the end of the 2014/2015 school year.

Any advice for current students?

Be humble. It's become a running theme in my life that when looking back on past years and my outlook on life at that point, I can only inwardly chuckle at the immaturity and lack of foresight my younger self had. As much as you may feel on top of the world, and sure that you have it all figured out, trust me, you don't. Always be open to new and different things, and you'll be looking back at yourself one day and wondering how you ever thought the thoughts you did.

Robert Mills '10

Why did you decide to become an AVC?

Seeing the results of how U of D has molded me into the man I am today, I feel honored to be in the educator role, and cannot wait to help the young men of U of D start on the same path as myself.

Did you participate in any co-curriculars or athletics when you were a student at U of D Jesuit?

I played soccer at U of D for three years, and lacrosse for 4 years.

What do you hope to accomplish/learn during your year back at The High?

I want to teach the young guys the true meaning of what being a "man for others" is truly about.

Any advice for current students?

Enjoy every moment, because you'll always wish you could go back!

Anthony Fattore '10

Why did you decide to become an AVC?

I wanted to be an AVC because it was an opportunity to give back to the school that helped me become the person I am today. Being able to help in the classroom, coach a sport, and just being a mentor to young men seems like a great way to spend a year. As a student, I always looked up to the AVCs, and I hope the students now will see me as I saw the AVCs of old – as role models. Being a part of the U of D community is an important part of my life and being back at 8400 S. Cambridge for a year of service is exciting.

Did you participate in any co-curriculars or athletics when you were a student at U of D Jesuit?

I was involved in the Student Senate all four years, I was a member of the French club, I was a part of the Campus Ministry team, and I played tennis, ran cross-country, and played lacrosse.

What do you hope to accomplish/learn during your year back at The High?

Being back at The High as a faculty member will add a new perspective to what it means to be a Man for Others, I am excited to learn what that entails. I hope that by the end of my time here the students look upon my being here as a positive influence on their year.

Any advice for current students?

Enjoy the school while you are here. Cherish the friends you have and reach out to those you may not be close with. Pay attention to what is said in the classroom; it may come in handy later in life. Try things you would not normally do, life is all about stepping outside your comfort zone.

John Bernard '10

Why did you decide to become an AVC?

Simply put, I want to give back to a place that has given me so much. I can remember wanting to return after college for this year of service since the first time I learned about the program. As an AVC, I will be able to both give back to U of D and continue to learn and grow as a leader, as a Catholic, and as a person. I am excited to get involved in many aspects of life at U of D – from coaching soccer and swimming to teaching history and leading service trips. This year is a fantastic opportunity to continue to improve myself while contributing to the mission of U of D Jesuit: making Men for Others.

Did you participate in any co-curriculars or athletics when you were a student at U of D Jesuit?

During my years as a student, I played soccer and swam for four years each, serving as a varsity captain for both as a senior. I was also very involved in the campus ministry and Christian service communities, taking advantage of the opportunities to attend and lead retreats, participate in Focus: Hope food deliveries, and travel on mission trips to Central America. I was also involved in the business, Celtic, and Latin clubs.

What do you hope to accomplish/learn during your year back at The High?

During this gift of a year back at UDJ, I hope to use valuable experiences in the classroom, on the athletic fields, and in the Chapel/on the Oxley retreat grounds to improve my leadership skills, deepen my faith, and prepare for my professional career. Though I am not sure about what for that career may take, I am excited to make use of the extensive resources U of D has to offer in securing an opportunity beyond 8400 S. Cambridge.

Any advice for current students?

When I reflect on my time as a student, I think the most poignant advice I could offer to current students is simply to get involved. Regrettably, it took me about two years to realize all of the opportunities I was missing. And it is no coincidence that I really began to feel at home and a full member of the Cub Community at the same time I began to make the extra effort to involve myself in clubs/organizations throughout the school. So take advantage of your time here, Cubs – believe me, it flies by.

Christopher Dael '10

Why did you decide to become an AVC?

I decided to apply for the AVC job for one reason, to give back to the school that had made me the man I am today. Throughout my time at U of D I met a bunch of people that I can still call my friends today. The teachers and faculty members taught all of us students how to treat people with respect and be men, because of that there weren't any separate clicks or groups of people that stood out over others. We were a family and a brotherhood. When I was a student there I had experienced many great AVC's that went through the program and they made my time there that much better. They were able to give us life lessons that maybe some of the older teachers couldn't and I want to be one of those guys that can give the current students the same experience that I had.

Did you participate in any co-curriculars or athletics when you were a student at U of D Jesuit?

When I was at U of D I played football for two years, my Freshman and Sophomore years and I also played baseball for all four years and I was a 3 year varsity letter winner. On top of that I helped work almost every football, basketball, lacrosse, and soccer events. I would spend a lot of time after school in the athletic department helping them out any way I could.

What do you hope to accomplish/learn during your year back at The High?

My goals as an AVC is to teach the new students how to be "Men for Others," to meet some people that will hopefully be able to help me out in the future, and to prepare the students for college. College was some of the best years of my life and part of that reason why it was so good to me is because I was prepared both as a student and as a person. I hope that these students will be able to take the information I pass onto them into college and apply it to make their time much more enjoyable and their respective schools.

Any advice for current students?

The biggest piece of advice I could give any student right now would be to not procrastinate, it's a problem most students have. Young students always want to have fun before they get their work done but what they don't realize is that when they put off school work it will build up over time and then they always try to do way too much at once and their work in return shows it. Their work will be sloppy and it will not show their actual potential as a student. I myself procrastinated a lot in high school and in college and by the end of my four years in college I realized that even though my years there were great, they could have been so much more enjoyable and at times less stressful if I wouldn't have put off assignments and big projects.

U of D Jesuit Robotics Program receives $17,000 from W.K. Kellogg Foundation

The W. K. Kellogg Foundation has awarded a $17,000 grant to the University of Detroit Jesuit High School & Academy's Robotics and Pre-Engineering Program for the 2014-2015 school year. The grant will be used to fund the hands-on robotics program where teams from grades 7-12 compete in FIRST Robotics competitions to enhance science, technology, engineering, mathematics (STEM) and mentoring skills of young men. Seniors from U of D Jesuit will coach and mentor U of D Jesuit 7th & 8th graders as well as elementary school boys and girls from Christ the King Elementary and Gesu Elementary to compete in FIRST Lego League competitions throughout Metro Detroit.

"In designing, programming, building and operating their robots, our students apply the concepts they learn in textbooks in a collaborative, team-oriented project to solve complex problems," said Karl J. Kiser, S.J. President. "Robotics provides the educational challenge students will need to be successful in bridging the STEM gap which exists in our country. We are pleased that the Kellogg Foundation supports U of D Jesuit as we educate our nation's next generation of STEM leaders."

U of D Jesuit Students and Faculty Learn from Ecuador Immersion Trip.

From June 21 to 28, eleven U of D Jesuit students and three faculty members participated in the Ecuador immersion experience. U of D Jesuit offers this experience through a partnership with Rostro de Cristo, a foundation that has worked in Ecuador since 1988. Rostro de Cristo operates year-round programs in two different communities just outside the largest city in the country, Guayaquil. In each neighborhood, Rostro de Cristo places year-long volunteers that work directly with the local community, and also serve as hosts. Although U of D Jesuit visited these communities for only a short time, Rostro de Cristo has made a commitment to strive to reach the needs of the local community until real progress is made. This progress includes paved roads, running water, reliable electricity and needed schools.

The main objectives of this trip are true "immersion" and spiritual growth. Students spent time visiting and participating at local worksites of the year-long volunteers, spent time with neighbors in the community, and learned about the reality of poverty in Ecuador. Students participated in nightly reflections, visited neighbors in the community and worksites, and lived like the neighborhood community. All meals were cooked by students themselves, with a goal of living on just $1-$2 per day. Since neither community had running water, students learned the importance of water conservation. Students do not spend time visiting tourist attractions or eating in restaurants, but rather encounter a reality that cannot be found within the United States: widespread extreme and moderate poverty.

U of D Jesuit Teachers Host Book Signing

U of D Jesuit High School hosted the book launch of English teacher Alexander Davidson's debut young adult novel The Visitor's Choice: A Search to Make Things Right on Thursday, June 19. The event also celebrates other faculty writers, such as English teacher Michael Lauchlan, who opened with some of his soon-to-be-published poetry before a dramatic presentation of The Visitor's Choice was read by the author and select student performers.

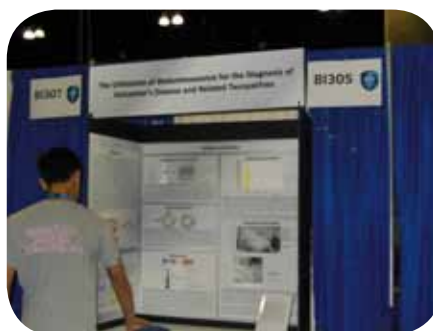

Juniors Present Their Work at ISEF in Los Angeles

Juniors Sam Ilkka and Andrew Lekarczyk did what very few high school students have the opportunity to do – present scientific findings to a worldwide audience. The duo had the opportunity at the International Science and Engineering Fair (ISEF) in Los Angeles, California from May 12 – 16. The fair was held at the Los Angeles Convention Center.

Both Ilkka and Lekarczyk presented their research project - The Utilization of Bioluminescence for the Diagnosis of Alzheimer's Disease and Related Tauopathies. The research was directed towards the detection of Tau proteins in Alzheimer's patients using bio luminescence of the luciferin/luciferase interaction found in fire flies. The pair previously presented their research project at the 57th Science and Engineering Fair of Metropolitan Detroit, where they earned the Grand Award and allowing them to compete at ISEF.

"We are extremely proud of these students. They took the initiative with this project. Earning the top team award at the Science Fair was an incredible achievement and we hope they are recognized for their work at ISEF," said Mrs. Priscilla Oshikiri, faculty leader and Chemistry teacher.

U of D Jesuit Faculty attended National Conference on Future Learning Practices

U of D Jesuit faculty traveled to Indianapolis on September 18 and 19 to participate in a national conference on blended learning environments, further integrating technology into the classroom. Hosted by the Jesuit Secondary Education Association and the Jesuit Virtual Learning Academy, the conference, called "Sprint: Future Learning Initiatives", discussed how teachers can become better Ignatian educators within a blended learning environment. U of D Jesuit faculty Bob Buchta, Tom Coyne, Sean Johnson, Justin Manwell, and Priscilla Oshikiri attended the conference to participate in hands-on opportunities to move from imagined ideal theory of online and blended learning into actual practices.

Participants chose from one of three areas to guide their work: content delivery, communication, and collaboration. The goal of the conference is to provide instruction regarding technology tools and innovative practices that enhance how Jesuit educators teach in their traditional brick and mortar classrooms. "This conference provides our educators a wonderful opportunity to learn from educators from around the nation regarding blended classroom learning and incorporates with our Bring Your Own Device program," says U of D Jesuit principal Anthony Trudel. "What's best is that our teachers can then use what they learned during the conference immediately in their own classrooms and share the knowledge with their colleagues as well."

In December 2013, U of D Jesuit announced the school was implementing a "Bring Your Own Device" or BYOD program for 9th and 10th graders. The program was created in an effort to create a blended learning environment which integrates technology into the classroom. The BYOD program allows students to use their own technological device as long as the device meets certain device requirements. There is no one machine or operating system that is preferred over another, so a student can use whichever device he is most comfortable with - a laptop, an iPad, or a Chromebook are all acceptable.

50th Anniversary of the Said Rahaim '64 Athlete of the Year Award

By Thomas O'Keefe '64

2014 has a special meaning for me and my classmates from the Class of 1964. It not only marks the 50th anniversary of our graduation from The High, but also the selection of the 50th recipient of the Said Rahaim Athlete of the Year

(Rahaim Family)

The class of '64 reunion planning committee wanted to celebrate our 50th reunion and honor our late classmate, Said Rahaim '64. Said was tragically killed in a car accident in the fall of 1964. The award was established because Said represented so many of the ideals of a Man for Others. We decided to invite the prior Said Rahaim '64 Award recipients and the members of the class of '64 to attend the graduation ceremony for the Class of 2014. We approached the Rahaim family, school administration and the Student Senate with our idea and we received enthusiastic support from everyone.

On the evening of June 14, 18 previous award recipients, representatives of the Class of 1964, and the extended Rahaim family gathered together for a reception before the graduation ceremony. Then the award recipients and the Class of 1964 led the graduating Cubs into the auditorium. It was a moving procession and set the tone for the evening. Chuck Gumbel '64, a thirty-one-year faculty member, introduced each of the attending award recipients prior to the announcement of the 2014 winner, Nick Mutebi '14.

The evening was a wonderful way for the Rahaim family, the award recipients and Said's classmates to visit and share stories. It was a special way to honor Said and it also reinforced the common threads that connect us all to The High. Thanks again to everyone who made the evening so memorable. It was a great night to be a Cub!

Cubs reaching the state regional finals for the 4th straight year!

Baseball - Jim Mancuso '02

The 2014 baseball season found the Cubs reaching the state regional finals for the 4th straight year. The Cubs came up short to the eventual state runner up Grosse Pointe South 4-2.

This year's team continued the trend of sending guys to play at the next level with four more graduating Cubs headed to various schools. Andre Gard heads to Kalamazoo College, Carter Kovalcik goes to join his older brother Conrad '13 at North Carolina Central University, while Mark Jones will be playing at Saginaw Valley State University. The 2014 2nd Team All State and East/West All Star game participant Gordon Fisher will be playing at Georgetown University. With the 2014 class, Coach Mancuso '02 and his staff have sent 12 players on to the college ranks in four years!

The Cubs look to bounce back in league play in 2015 and travel those 12.38 miles to the Catholic League Championship at Comerica Park.

Golf - Paul Diehl '73

The Cub varsity golf team finished a great season by finishing in 7th place in the State Finals. That's the best finish for a Cub golf squad in forty years. The team persevered through a season of cold weather, closed golf courses, and tough competition.

The team shot an even par 288 at Huron Meadows in Brighton to win its district qualifier, the lowest 18 hole tournament score for a Cub team! Senior captain Charlie Bolton shot a four under par 68 to lead the way. Sophomore John Karcher's one under par, sophomore Nick Bonema's even par and senior Brad Meyers' 77 completed the historic round.

The team visited Mystic Creek in Milford for what was considered the toughest regional in the state. Four teams were ranked in the top 10 in Division 1 golf. Only three of the twelve teams competing would move on to the Finals in East Lansing. The Cubs were on the course from 8:00AM until 3:30PM due to a 145 minute rain delay. It continued to rain when the Cubs went back out, but they wouldn't quit. With scores of 76, 77, 78 & 79, the Cubs finished third with a three stroke lead over its next closest competitor.

Charlie Bolton finished in 6th place as an individual at State Finals. Captain Charlie shot a one under par round on his last day as a Cub. He went on to earn All-State Honorable Mention honors. Good luck to Charlie as he goes to play Division 1 golf at Creighton University in Omaha, Nebraska.

Lacrosse

The U of D Jesuit lacrosse team, coached by Sean Leary, joined the U of D Jesuit basketball and hockey teams in reaching the Division 1 Final Four in 2014, marking the team's first appearance in the Final Four since 2010. The Cubs started off slowly, losing close games throughout the season before making a run in the state playoffs, knocking off #9 ranked Ann Arbor Skyline and Northville in regional competition before falling to eventual state champion Brother Rice in the state semi-finals. Senior Brian Hubbard was named to the All-State 1st team, while senior Tommy Apap and sophomore Michael Baccanari were named to the All-State 2nd team. Charlie Charboneau was named an Academic All-American and the Academic All-State team, along with seniors Brian Hubbard and Mark Parillo.

Track and Field

The track team, coached by Carl Brock, slugged through the regular season, finishing 2-3 in the Catholic League Central Division, defeating Divine Child and Catholic Central. A young team featuring only 12 seniors out of the 78 students listed on the roster, the team battled through youth, inexperience, and injuries to improve throughout the season. In the Catholic League meet, senior Jacari Faulker finished 2nd in the shot put with a throw of 48' 9.5", while senior Nick Lamping finished 2nd in high jump, with a jump of 6' 1". Lamping also won the high jump in Regional competition and competed in the State Finals.

Athletic Hall Of Fame

Three years of individual and committee work will culminate early this December as the U of D Jesuit Athletic Department, in conjunction with the Cub Club Athletic Boosters, induct U of D Jesuit's first class of Athletic Hall of Fame inductees. The U of D Jesuit Athletic Hall of Fame sponsored by the Cub Club will find a permanent home in Curley Lobby. Visitors, alumni and friends will find a space transformed to honor both individuals and teams that will make any Cub proud.

According to U of D Jesuit Athletic Director and Hall of Fame committee chair Nick Kocsis, "This has been a long and rewarding process for everyone involved. Four years ago we took note that U of D Jesuit was a school with a rich athletic history that didn't have a place to properly honor its past. We have spent close to three years working towards creating something that will make our alumni, faculty, students, coaches and parents proud."

The process began in 2011 when an original proposal was submitted to the school's Leadership Team from the Cub Club Athletic Boosters. From that point forward, a committee was created within the Cub Club that would carry out the by-laws set forth for the Hall of Fame. The Hall of Fame committee is comprised of U of D Jesuit Athletic Director Nick Kocsis, Cub Club President and father of four U of D Jesuit graduates, Frank laquinta, Director of Alumni Relations, Chris Holinski '02, Bill Foerg '62, and E.F. Rossi '67. Each committee member brought their own perspectives and talents to the table.

Throughout the 2013-2014 school year, nominations were solicited and over 90 possible quality inductees were gathered from the school's 137 year history. The committee then went to work creating the first ballot of potential inductees which was then voted on by the Cub Club members. By the end of the summer, the results were in and certified by the committee. Following the Hall of Fame by-laws, 13 (3 posthumous) individuals were selected for induction in this inaugural year. Aside from the individual inductions Tom Coyne '62 was selected to receive the Athletic Hall of Fame's first Distinguished Service Award that will be given annually to someone who has represented the mantra of being a "man for others" by supporting U of D Jesuit Athletics. Another highlight of the evening will include the team inductions of the 1927 golf, 1993 track & field, and 2001 soccer state championship teams. Teams will be inducted as a whole for their accomplishments and not as individuals. After this year, one team will be inducted annually.

For more information about attending the 1st Annual U of D Jesuit Hall of Fame induction on December 6, 2014 at U of D Jesuit visit our website at www.uofdjesuit.org.

Detroit: Our Home

Detroit's Got Talent. No, the television show isn't coming to Motown anytime soon; rather, it describes the buzz Detroit is earning by attracting risk-takers, investors and young people to a city keen on economic growth. And significant growth is happening in Detroit, thanks to entrepreneurial, hard-charging visionaries, many of whom have connections to The High.

Detroit, once relegated to a rustbelt dustbin, is now being portrayed nationally as a comeback kid, but it didn't blossom overnight; it took grit, nimbleness, courage and a certain kind of character to make it happen.

Chris Rizik, CEO and fund manager, Renaissance Venture Capital Fund, a Michigan-based fund that connects Michigan's innovation community and its industrial and commercial base, describes the young talent he sees in Detroit as more focused on making an impact than purely financial gains.

"Yes, they want some financial stability," said Rizik, "but they aren't coming here looking for a secure, safe bet; they can go to New York or Chicago for that. They come here for a challenge, for a chance to make significant positive changes even early in their careers, and have fulfilling careers here."

In many ways, what's happening in Detroit is guided by the same principles that made America great: a place where success is met at the intersection of hard work and opportunity. Rizik, who manages the largest privately funded organization of its kind in the U.S., has three sons, Luke '07, Jeff '10, and Paul '13, who went to The High, and he sees similarities between a Jesuit education and what's happening in Detroit. "People investing their careers in Detroit are interested in what they can contribute to Detroit. They see themselves as part of a larger community. They work hard, employ critical thinking and they're willing to help others realize their dreams, too."

Ten years ago, no venture fund would look at Detroit, now many of them are intrigued by Detroit and want to be plugged into the opportunities available here. They see Detroit as a city on the rise. Rizik has more than $100 million dedicated to Michigan ventures, and is using that to help attract over $1 billion from others into Michigan.

If Rizik is connecting dollars to Michigan's scientific, engineering, and business talent, Olga Stella, vice president, Business Development at the Detroit Economic Growth Corporation (DEGC), is connecting people. Stella, whose husband, Dante Stella, class of 1991, and father-in-law, Daniel Stella, class of 1961, attended The High, is leading economic development strategies focused on creating jobs and economic opportunities within the city.

"I'm a facilitator of relationships" said Stella. The DEGC, a nonprofit economic development agency, is a close partner of the City of Detroit and staffs several of its public redevelopment authorities. In an effort to streamline connections and avoid duplication, the DEGC acts as staff for a number of public authorities and their board members are appointed by the mayor.

In her role, Stella manages economic development efforts funded by private and foundation contributions, grants and contracts. "You name it, we'll help pull all the levers to help make it happen," said Stella. "We guide interested parties through what could be a labyrinth of complexity into a streamlined process that answers their questions, connects them with real opportunities, and value propositions that can meet their business objectives."

Detroit: Our Home

That means real estate, incentives, staffing, permitting, builders, contractors and more. The DEGC is credited with helping IT companies, food processing, national manufacturing companies, and creative start-ups, to name a few, get a foothold in Detroit. Stella cites the DEGC's work with Detroit Manufacturing Systems, Shinola Watches, Skidmore Studios and Whole Foods – which opened in June 2013 in the city's Midtown area – as a few of the hallmarks of their success.

Wearing many hats and playing the roles of financier, broker, realtor, specialist, generalist, and guidance counselor, Stella and the DEGC are connecting interested parties to the right resources in Detroit – to make it a location where business dreams can come true. With continued net job increases and year-over-year increases in investment, the gains are sticking.

Down the street from DEGC is a bedrock of Detroit's growth, Rock Ventures. The effort to make Detroit an attractive place to “live, work and play” is credited to many but perhaps none more so than Matt Cullen's team at Rock Ventures. Rock Ventures is the family of companies owned by Dan Gilbert, founder and chairman of Quicken Loans. Cullen, the company's President/CEO and father of three Cubs, Matthew '14, Ryan '17 and John '19, puts it in simple terms, “Detroit offers the opportunity to do good and do well. The raw materials for commerce are here.”

“Detroit is no longer a city of episodic development,” said Cullen, “we have national companies flocking to the city, like Uber, Twitter, and Chrysler. Quicken Loans also relocated its national headquarters to Detroit which included the transfer and/or addition of nearly 12,000 team members to work in the city since August 2010 alongside their Rock Ventures teammates. Detroit Venture Partners, a venture capital firm that invests in early-stage digital technology companies, and Bizdom, a startup business accelerator program, also operate in Detroit with a strong focus on helping new businesses start and succeed in Detroit.”

Dan Gilbert's family of companies currently have more than 100 companies working in downtown Detroit and has recruited more than 120 tenants to downtown during the past four years, and new companies continue to move to the city's core. Gilbert's Bedrock Real Estate Services, has invested in over 60 properties totaling more than nine million square feet of commercial office, retail, and parking space in downtown Detroit's Central Business District. Bedrock and its local partners are feverishly restoring and renovating these buildings to keep up with demand. “Opportunity is made in Detroit,” says Cullen, “It's a different city and you can feel it.”

And in the putting-your-money-where-your-mouth-is department, Quicken Loans broke ground on the Quicken Loans Technology Center, a state-of-the-art, 66,000-square-foot data center and office complex located on Rosa Parks Boulevard in Detroit's vibrant and historic Corktown district. The new facility will feature two 10,000-square-foot server rooms in addition to training centers and meeting space. This new development is part of Dan Gilbert's family of companies $1.3 billion of investment in Detroit.

For a city with roots in the transportation industry, perhaps the most visible sign of Detroit's resurgence is a new street car system, M-1 RAIL, led by Matt Cullen as its CEO.

In July, construction began on the project, a 3.3-mile circulating streetcar along Woodward Avenue (M1) and the first major public-private partnership transit project being led and funded by private businesses, the philanthropic community, local government, State of Michigan, and the U.S. Department of Transportation. M-1 RAIL will link Detroit's riverfront, central business district, Midtown's educational, cultural, entertainment, and medical institutions, New Center and North End neighborhoods along Woodward Avenue.

“What we saw in this project was ... the strength, determination and the mettle of a great city. When Detroit moves, America moves,” said U.S. Transportation Secretary Anthony Foxx.

Analogies of Detroit's resurgence can be culled from the annals of a University of Detroit Jesuit High School playbook. Faith, character, hard work, and a striving for excellence are as germane to a U of D education as they are to the work going on in our city. Cubs have been a consistent force in our city since 1877. Today, the people leading our city in its renaissance choose a U of D as the school of choice for their families, perhaps because the very character traits needed to lead are those learned at The High.

Four Questions to Michael Parks '61

By Christopher Holinski '02

Michael Parks is a journalist and educator whose assignments have taken him around the globe, and whose “balanced and comprehensive” coverage of the struggle against apartheid in South Africa earned him the 1987 Pulitzer Prize for International Reporting. From 1997-2000, Parks served as editor of the Los Angeles Times, a period during which the Times garnered four additional Pulitzer Prizes. Currently, Parks is a Professor and the Director of the University of Southern California’s Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism.

1. How has your Jesuit education influenced your life and the decisions you have made along your journey?

What makes a Jesuit Education different from other educations? I think the answer there is the either explicit, usually implicit, knowledge that almost all choices are ethical choices in the end. What is the right thing to do? The major decisions, what is right and why is it right? What is wrong and why? What decision are you going to make and why are you making it? This is a way of saying that I found the education to instill a moment of reflection at almost every point. What values do you bring to those decisions? You do have values and you use them all the time. The value of helping others, helping those who need help, the downtrodden, recognizing why they are in that situation and trying to ameliorate it. In a profession like journalism, you bring values to everything you do. You do it every day. You do it consciously. You may do it reactively, but you do bring values.

2. What have been some of your most satisfying moments while first at the LA Times and now working with students at the University of Southern California?

As a foreign correspondent, I had a front seat to watching global history being made. I saw the ending of the disastrous war in Vietnam. I went with Sadat to Jerusalem in 1978. I covered both the Dissident movement and Refuseniks in the Soviet Union. I watched the Soviet American détente collapse under its own weight in some respects, but others laid the basis for profound change that came later in the century. I had this front seat watching history. I covered the end of the Soviet Union, the second most powerful state the world has ever seen. I saw China pull itself out of the Cultural Revolution and begin its very dynamic march into the 21st century. I covered attempts to make peace in the Middle East. It hasn't born fruit yet, but we live in hope. Most of all, I saw South Africans, black and white together, rise up and end the system of apartheid, which was so unjust. I had this amazing front row seat for 25 years, watching global developments. It was very satisfying.

At the University of Southern California, the Annenberg school, we try to prepare young journalists, young public relations practitioners, to report and work in a very rapidly changing media environment. They seize the opportunity and initiative and want to shape what is going to come next. This is the only reason I am there. To help them to understand the challenges they will face and to be able to respond in a very dynamic way.

3. What do you hope to accomplish during your tenure at USC?

I hope to give the students the skills they will need to operate in certain environments. We want to give them the ability to not just look around the corner at what is next tomorrow, but to really scan the horizon to see what the possibilities are. We want them to be ambitious professionally and we want them to really take those skills, take that vision, and say "how do we improve the performance of society?" That is what the skills of journalism and public relations are essentially about. We believe that an informed citizenry can make the US a better place to live for all. We want them to not only be skilled but visionary.

4. Any advice for the younger Cubs just getting started in their careers?

Two pieces: first is to get out and work. Get those after school jobs, weekend jobs, and summer jobs. Try things out and see what you like. See what fits you. I cannot tell you how many recovering lawyers we get in the graduate journalism program, who went through three years of law school, worked a bit and said "not for me." You want to go out and try stuff.

Second, don't be so focused on getting work experience that you neglect things like music, art, and theater. These things will enrich your life well past college graduation, well past graduate school, they will sustain you 50 years beyond that. I benefited as much from extra curriculars at U of D as anything else. I benefitted a lot from what was the Bellermino academy, which was an effort to get the students into the fine arts. The benefits of a liberal education cannot be understated.

U of D Jesuit's First Pulitzer Prize Awardee:

I was very excited. You don't get those calls very often. I was a finalist before, a finalist subsequently, and a finalist twice in the same year. I took great professional pride in the awarding of the Pulitzer Prize for International Reporting for my work in South Africa. The story that I saw there, was the story of a people standing up, rising, saying that we will end this evil system. We will not pass it onto our children like it was passed onto us! We will bring a better future, and we will do so even if it costs us our lives. That is a very dramatic and inspiring story.

Cub Express

By: Christopher Holinski '02

As you know, it is quite an exciting time to be a part of the U of D Jesuit community. With all of our success over the past few years, we have tried to shout the great news from every mountaintop that we can reach. Just because you have left the Detroit area, does not mean that you should not share in U of D Jesuit's successes. This is why the Cub has been coming to you and will not stop until he has seen everyone. Over the past year, the Cub has been on the #CubExpress tour of the country, from the east coast to the west coast, from college towns to downtowns. You may have been at one of the receptions or seen the Cub's travels on social media. If you have not, make sure you follow and like U of D Jesuit on Instagram, Twitter, and Facebook so you do not miss out on the next Cub Express adventure coming to a town near you.

The purpose of the #CubExpress is to connect alumni and share all the great news coming out of 8400 South Cambridge. We have been to many cities meeting a lot of “loyal fellows” and we want to share our experiences with everyone else. Even though the #CubExpress just started this past year, we have already visited a great number of cities including D.C., NYC, Ann Arbor, Naples, Denver, Atlanta, San Francisco, and Minneapolis just to name a few. So let’s take a look back on our previous adventures and see some of the places the #CubExpress has been:

Dave Gumbel '00, Director of Annual Giving, and I started the journey in February on a very cold, snowy day before the sun had begun to rise, probably during the winter vortex, waiting for our train in Ann Arbor. We were headed to Milwaukee on the first leg of our trip to experience all the cheesy goodness and great company that Wisconsin had to offer. Once we arrived, we had to quickly get ready to meet some young alums for dinner across town. We exchanged stories of The High from both the past and the present. The next night, we held our alumni reception at the famous Sobelman's. The food was great as was the company.

The next day, we took off for the Windy City, which is the second largest populated area of Cubs. We had our event at Public House and welcomed over 40 cubs throughout the evening. The event proved to quite successful and many Cub connections and re-connections were made. Not only are the alumni receptions a great way to stay connected with The High and share in our successes but also a way to network with fellow Cubs.

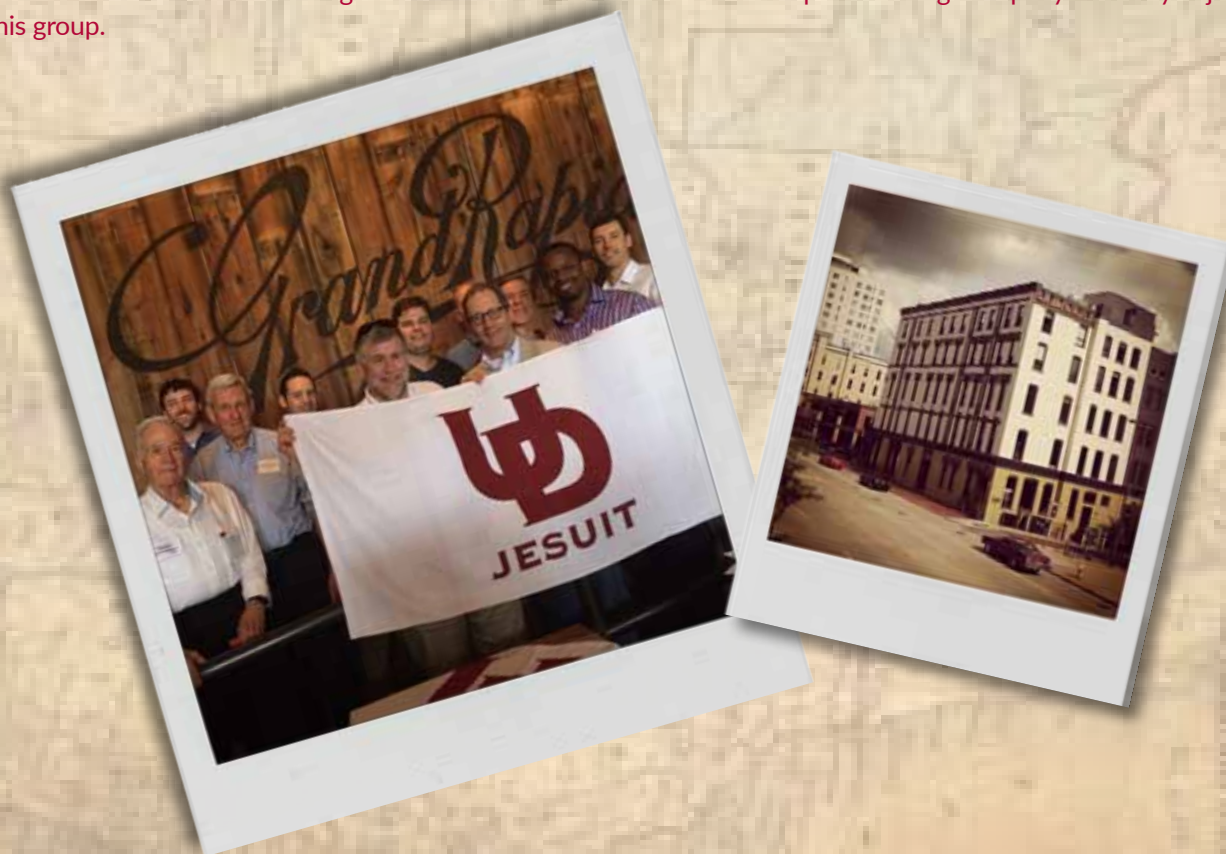

Feature Story - Cub Express

We witnessed such great turnouts in both Milwaukee and Chicago that it was decided the tour of the #CubExpress must continue. Our next stop was in Minneapolis. While the number of alums living in the Twin Cities don't compare to Chicago, the turnout was off the charts. It was mentioned to Dave and myself that U of D Jesuit has never been to Minnesota. We could not believe it! These guys were as passionate about U of D Jesuit as anyone I have met. We will be back to the Twin Cities sooner rather than later next time.

After taking a few months off to recover from the tour out of state, it was time to feel the love back in the mitten. We decided to pack up the car and head to the western side of the state visiting Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo. Seeing all the excitement and the number of breweries in downtown Grand Rapids, I can understand why young and more senior alums are moving to the west side of the state. We had a great turnout of Cubbies at the Grand Rapids Brewing Company and truly enjoyed visiting with this group.

The most recent stop on the #CubExpress was in sunny California. Dave and I brought the good word of U of D Jesuit to the Cubs in Los Angeles, San Diego, and San Francisco. We made three stops over three days and met Cubs from 1949 to 2008. Regardless of your age, any Cub is welcome to attend a U of D Jesuit reception. Hearing the stories about The High over time is one of the best parts of these reunions! We all experienced the great stories that occurred at The High from football games to Focus:Hope to JUGS to prom. We can all relate to each other and will always be men for others.

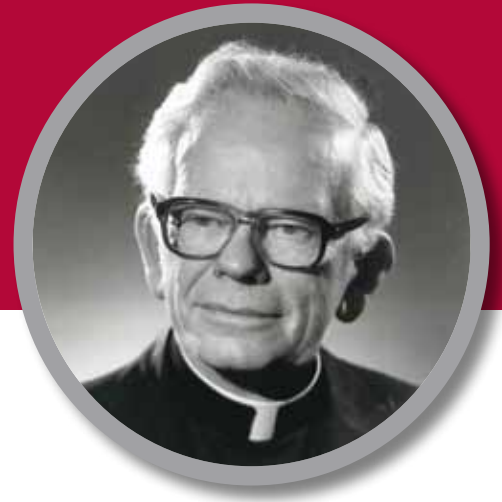

The Cub Express is not slowing down over the next year. We will be all over the country with stops in Georgia, Massachusetts, Arizona, Florida, Pennsylvania, Michigan, and more! Please visit our social media sites to keep up to date on our upcoming trips. If you have a group of Cubs in your area, let us know! We'd love to come see you!

Supporting The Jesuit High School Experience in Detroit

With a vision for the future of The High, Fr. Malcolm Carron, S.J. '35 established the Arrupe Society in 1985. He wanted to be sure that U of D Jesuit would continue to graduate Cubs who would be well-prepared as leaders: Men for Others who would serve their families, churches and communities. Continuing Fr. Carron's work, our benefactors who have included U of D Jesuit in their will or estate plan have similarly laid the foundation for our future.

This year, fifteen benefactors have joined the Arrupe Society, bringing total membership to 192. Some have named The High as the beneficiary of their IRAs. Others have made provisions in their wills to establish a named perpetual scholarship. While the details of their legacy gifts differ, these alumni and friends share the same generous sentiment: to provide ongoing financial support so that future generations of Cubs will graduate with a well-rounded perspective, a sense of humility and justice, and an entire world of possibilities ahead of them. We are grateful to the following friends who have joined the Arrupe Society between July 2013 and June 2014.

Class of 1989 Generosity Honors Their Deceased Classmates

By Dave Gumbel '00

Jim BonAnno '89 and Eric Scheible'89 shared the inspiration and call to action with members of the Class of 1989 to both honor their deceased classmates and to change the future for an incoming freshman.

"We established the Class of 1989 Memorial Circle of Care Scholarship in conjunction with our 25th Reunion in June, 2014 because we wanted to establish both a lasting legacy for our deceased classmates and because we wanted to assist a young man in his pursuit of the wonderful education we all had but which he otherwise could not afford," said Eric.

Jim added, "We both thought that we could reach out to our classmates to be more involved financially with The High and we did so with the concept of encouraging broad participation by making a four-year commitment at a reasonable amount. The concept worked because the aggregate amount was enough to sponsor a student for his entire 4 years in school. "

Eric continued "We truly had no doubt that the Class of 1989, which objectively was a remarkable class in many respects, would provide the commitments to make the concept a reality. Five of our classmates passed away in the years after our graduation. Our guys – Trent Hankins, George Kates, Chuck Rutherford, Pat Scullin, and Dwight Street – are all beautiful people; all of whom passed away far too young and prior to having a family."

"We contacted the parents of the deceased. Each of them was touched and enthusiastically supportive of the initiative. We then set out to contact our classmates for their participation. In less than 4 months, with the assistance of Dave Gumbel '00 and the school who handled all of the administration and mailings, we secured the necessary commitments from our classmates and the Scholarship concept became reality. A young man (who will already have begun his freshman year by the time you read this) will be the recipient of the first 1989 Memorial Scholarship. We think it would be great if this concept is carried on by future 25th Reunion classes," concluded Jim.

As Eric and Jim shared above, the Class of 1989 has started an Annual Circle of Care Scholarship. From now until graduation, the incoming freshman awardee will share with the participating members of the scholarship his experiences during his four years at The High. For the current academic year, the gift for an Annual Circle of Care Scholarship is a four-year pledge of $11,000 per year (a total of $44,000 over the four years).

Several benefactors have taken an extra step and have Endowed their Circle of Care Scholarship gift. The endowed gift allows them to link their legacy with that of U of D Jesuit in the form of a named scholarship. Their gift of $220,000, payable over five years, will fund in perpetuity the tuition for students at The High.

You can read more about the Circle of Care Scholarship program at www.uofdjесuit.org/CircleofCare or please contact Tom Totte '74 at 313.927.2347 or at thomas.totte@uofdjесuit.org.

On the following page we recognize the named Circle of Care sponsors for the academic year beginning August 2014. "Annual" sponsors are those who made a commitment to fund tuition for four years. "Endowed" sponsors have either a fully-endowed scholarship, or one which is partially-endowed and continues to be funded towards full endowment.

Swain '40 and Shepanek '54 honored at annual Alumni Senior Luncheon

By Christopher Holinski '02

The Detroit Athletic Club hosted the 27th annual Alumni Senior Luncheon this year. U of D Jesuit took this time to recognize two of its finest alumni, as well as the departing Class of 2014 on Wednesday, April 30, 2014. William Swain '40 and John Shepanek '54 were honored as "Alumnus of the Year" recipients for their outstanding support of U of D Jesuit and their work in their community as "Men for Others".

William Swain '40 attended the University of Detroit College after The High. He then moved down to Tennessee where he started his own lumbering business in 1942. Soon after, he opened his own real estate, mining, and banking businesses. Bill was unable to attend the Alumni Senior luncheon to accept his award; however, he did send a heartfelt video from his home in Tennessee to all the alumni in attendance stating, "I am very humbled by the award and will treasure it for the rest of his life." Bill then reflected back to his times at The High saying in the video message,

"It took me awhile to realize what a great influence my U of D High education has had on my life... It led me to born my own motto many years ago, on the basis of 'the better you do, the more you owe'. Of course, you realize that is biblical based, in to whom much is given, much is required. As men who serve, as Cubbies, you are exactly that, you have had some experiences with that. As you look around you every day, you will find opportunities to serve and to continue to better not only your life but those of your friends and neighbors about you."

Bill credit's his Jesuit education to his success throughout his life, using the foundations he learned at The High both in personal and professional aspects. This is one of the many reasons why he has been very generous with his resources that he worked hard for over his lifetime and why William Swain was a great candidate for the "Alumnus of the Year" award.

He finished with a message for the young alums there that afternoon saying, "you will treasure, as you go through life, the experiences, the education, and the moral position that a U of D High education has brought to you. By continually raising your own expectations, you can really do a great deal, especially with the education you have as graduates of the University of Detroit High School."

Fr. Kiser introduced John Shepanek '54 before the crowd of over 250 Cubs, lauding John for having all the qualities we look for in an "Alumnus of the Year" recipient. He explained that when he first met John way back, the thought he had was "this is a good man." John has been very successful in his career as Senior Vice President of Franchise Operations at Taco Bell, as Group Vice President at Carls Jr., and as CEO at Oil Can Henry's ; and truly is a "man for others." He is one who serves his community, cares about the poor, and those who are lacking an education. As Fr. Kiser can attest to, anyone who can spend any time with John will see and know that they are in the presence of someone good.

This is just one of the many reasons why John was selected as an "Alumnus of the Year" recipient. He continuously gives his time back to his community and to The High. This is what Men for Others do. "This is amazing!" John exclaimed, "I am deeply grateful to be chosen as one of the alumni of the year." John, just like William Swain, could not help but to reflect on his journey through U of D High. Can you blame them? During his first week of orientation as a freshman, he had some upperclassman approach him trying to sell an elevator pass.

2014 Alumni Senior Luncheon

None the wiser, John was thinking why not, but did not have any money on him at the time. Over the next days, he noticed that U of D High did not have an elevator at all. This taught John to "believe 50 percent of what people tell you and verify the rest. If you do that in life, you will be doing very well." John credits the Jesuits and their teaching methods for his success in his life. In particular, the intellectual, spiritual, and social foundations that are taught.

John's message to the seniors was his four guiding principles for business and personal success. "The first one is 'age si quid agis' (do well in whatever you do) came right from U of D High. The second is 'the devil is in the details.' Don't just gloss over it. Take the time and understand the ingredients that it takes to be successful. This one here is from my hero, Winston Churchill, 'never give up, never give up, never, never, never, never give up.' The last one which came directly from U of D Jesuit, which was told to me by Fr. McPartlin, is mediocrity is tantamount to failure. Never be satisfied with anything in your life that is mediocre. If you do that and live a life like that, success, however you define it, will always happen."

Fr. Kiser presented the awards to both Swain '40 and Shepank '54 before he gave his State of The High to all the Cubs in attendance. If you wish to see the videos William Swain's speech, John Shepanek's speech, or Fr. Kiser's State of The High, please go to www.youtube.com/officialuofdjesuit.

The final order of business for the day was to recognize our youngest alumni, the members of the Class of 2014. They were given alumni pins marking their induction into the ranks of Cub alumni. It was a day of reconnecting old relationships and creating new ones. It was a wonderful afternoon and we look forward to seeing you again next year.

President's Report

Fiscal Year July 1, 2013 – June 30, 2014

U of D Jesuit thanks its generous donors!

A Note from the President

Dear U of D Jesuit Community,

As President of U of D Jesuit, I am delighted to acknowledge the many wonderful benefactors whose names appear on the following pages. I am humbled by the overwhelming support which this school receives. I also realize that there are many individuals who support the school in many ways through their volunteer efforts. We are a stronger institution because of the good will of so many. Thank you to all who support the mission of U of D Jesuit in forming "Men for Others for the greater glory of God."

God Bless,

Karl J. Kiser, S.J.

U of D Jesuit thanks its generous donors! We apologize for any omissions in the President's Report. If your name was not listed or there was an error in its entry, please contact David Gumbel at (313) 927-2304.

Where Are They Now?

Fr. Richard Twohig has a long history with U of D Jesuit. He lived in the Jesuit Community from 1972 until 2005 (except for 1994-97), served as Principal from 1980 to 1993 and Superior of the Jesuit Community from 1999-2005.

You were U of D Jesuit Principal during the Reagan-Bush-Clinton years. What were some of the things you worked hardest to build up?

When I became Principal in 1980, enrollment at U of D Jesuit had been plummeting for about 5 or 6 years. We had about 500 students in the High School and Academy and we were graduating classes of 85 or 86 students for several years. In my first few years as Principal, I served as director of admissions as well. Building up the enrollment was my top priority. During those first few years, I spent much of my time visiting grade schools and middle schools throughout the metropolitan area. When Fr. Malcolm Carron became President in 1981, he immediately hired a recent alumnus, Chris Woiwode '78, to serve as Director of Admissions, and then things began to turn around and our numbers began to grow steadily every year.

When we had low enrollment, our science facilities were adequate for our needs. But when enrollment began to grow, very quickly we outgrew our science classroom and lab facilities. More space for science classrooms and labs became our next priority; eventually Fr. Carron was able to raise enough money to build a new science wing.

Along with the need to expand our science facilities, we also urgently needed to build up our technology. With the help of math teacher Mr. Chris Buryta, we were able to secure 36 computers and open a computer lab on the second floor. We were able to offer computer courses and use the computers to teach typing.

But that expansion led to new problems: security. Over one summer, we had three or four break-ins and lost much of the computer equipment. That forced us to install a security system in the building and hire a full-time director of security, Mr. Bob Swanson. He's still at U of D Jesuit and the school is now very safe and secure.

After 13 years as Principal, you left U of D Jesuit. Where did you go, and what did you do?

I spent a year refreshing my knowledge of theology at the Jesuit School of Theology in Cambridge, Massachusetts, where I focused primarily on biblical studies, taking 4 courses each semester.

In my final year as Principal, my Jesuit Provincial, Fr. Joe Daoust, told me that a former Detroit Province Provincial, Father Paul Besanceney—who was then serving as Provincial of our Eastern Africa Province— was getting ready to open a secondary school in Dar es Salaam, the capitol city of Tanzania. The only problem was he didn't have a Jesuit who could serve as headmaster, and he requested Fr. Daoust to send me to Tanzania to help start the new school. That was a surprise to me! Fr. Daoust told me to think about it and pray about it. I began to think of all the reasons why this was a bad idea but, at the end of a year, I couldn't come up with one compelling reasons not to go. So, after my sabbatical, I headed for northern Tanzania to study Swahili, the common language in that part of Africa, for four months at the Maryknoll language school in Musoma, on the shores of Lake Victoria. I got to the point where I could get by in Swahili but I couldn't engage in a serious conversation. My most useful sentences were, "Naweza kusema Kiswahili kidogo tu. Unasema Kiingereza?" "I can only speak a bit of Swahili. Do you speak English?"

Then I traveled south and east to Dar es Salaam to begin planning for the opening of the new school, Loyola Secondary School. The first of what would eventually be six buildings plus a chapel and auditorium, a three-story classroom building with five classrooms, a science lab, and an office, was just under construction when I arrived. When I left three years later, laborers were finishing work on the second classroom building. All the construction was hand labor except for mixing the concrete. Equipping the school especially for science labs was another challenge. Fr. Dick Cherry, a Jesuit from Toledo who had been a scholastic at U of D Jesuit in the early 60's and was an experienced science teacher from years in India, joined us and arranged for the science equipment we needed, purchasing most of it in the U.S. and Europe. Very early we decided that Loyola would not accept boarding students, so we didn't have to build dorms.

The next order of business was hiring a faculty. Apart from another Jesuit priest and a scholastic, most of the faculty were lay men and women from Dar es Salaam. A big challenge was finding suitable textbooks. A U.S. Jesuit who had worked in the Sudan collected books for us in the U.S. This was a tremendous help. Many of the books he sent were useful to us in helping our students master speaking, reading, and writing English.

During my first year as the classroom building was nearing completion, we gave our first entrance exam. 300 boys and girls took the exam, and we accepted 70 boys and 70 girls for our first class. Because of construction delays, school was late in opening, but we managed to have one semester of classes that year.

That sounds pretty challenging. Tell me a bit about Tanzania and its school system.

As I look back now, the three years I spent in Eastern Africa were some of the best years of my life as a Jesuit. I had never been outside the U.S. and Canada before. Living in a totally different culture and in one of the poorest countries in Africa was a great eye opener. My entire time there was a huge learning experience. Even though Dar es Salaam numbered about 3 million people, it was still like living in a big village. I had to get used to dodging chickens and goats and cattle whenever I drove anywhere in Dar. And it was hot and humid all year long. Dar is 7 degrees below the equator and right on the Indian Ocean. Imagine the hottest and most humid day of a Michigan summer and then multiply it by 365 and you'll get a year in Dar es Salaam. There was an infrequent rain storm when the temperature would drop into the 80's, but then everyone would bundle up in winter clothing because of the cold. I wore a short sleeve shirt and thought it was just getting comfortable!

Mastery of English was our focus during our students' first year. We found some of our students had a moderate command of English; but others could only say, "Good morning, Teacher," a greeting to any white adult they met any time of the day. The rest of our curriculum met the standards set by the government and included math, geography, world history, physics, biology and religion. The government actually required religion. Two Canossian Sisters (an Italian order) taught Catholic religion, but we also had religion teachers for the Muslim and Episcopalian students.

Many of the parents remembered schools begun by missionaries thirty or forty years before, and they were happy that their children were able to go to a "missionary" school (a school run by foreigners). We had good and supportive relations with the government of Tanzania. And the students worked hard and were eager for an education. The most serious disciplinary problem that I had was reminding the boys to button the button below the collar button on their shirts.

What did you do for diversion?

Well, there was no hiking or bike riding and certainly no cross-country skiing! When the Jesuits wanted a break from our routine, we generally drove about 6 hours north to Arusha where the Eastern Africa Province had its novitiate. Along the drive on pretty good roads we passed Mt. Kilimanjaro. It was usually covered by clouds, but twice when it was clear it was a wonderful sight.

Where Are They Now?

You left Dar es Salaam after three years. How did you feel? Any regrets?

It was very satisfying to have the new school up and running and ready to be administered locally. In hindsight, I regret that I didn't continue on for a few more years. The young Jesuit who replaced me didn't have any experience with secondary school administration and things became a bit rocky for the school for a few years. But it eventually got back on track and is doing very well now with about a thousand students.

After you returned to the United States, what did you do?

I rejoined the Jesuit community at U of D Jesuit and worked at our provincial office on 7 Mile Road as the provincial assistant for foreign missions and secondary education. I also served as Superior of the U of D Jesuit community from 1999 to 2005. Then I went to Colombiere Center, the province's health care facility in Clarkston, MI, as Superior and Director.

Running a health-care center must have been considerably different from running a school. How did you manage?

When I arrived at Colombiere in 2005, there were 48 Jesuits in the community. Many of them were in assisted living, but some required various degrees of nursing care, from assistance with taking medications to round-the-clock care. Two or three were Alzheimer's patients. By the time I left Colombiere in the summer of 2013, the number of Jesuits had grown to 65 and the number of Alzheimer's patients to 15. Needless to say, the staff likewise grew. Besides housing a Jesuit health care community, Colombiere is also a retreat/conference center.

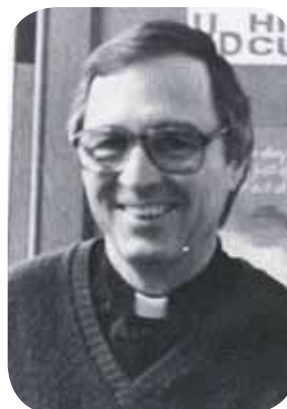

I was assisted by a couple of Jesuits and many very capable lay people, staffing departments such as food services, maintenance, housekeeping, nursing, retreats/conferences and administration. Most of my work was with the Jesuits, most of whom I knew well. Former U of D Jesuit teachers Fathers George Follen, P.J. Rice and Vince Hagarman were members of the Jesuit community while I was there.

What are you doing now?

I am school chaplain at Walsh Jesuit High School in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. I live in a Jesuit community, all of whose members served at one time at U of D Jesuit: Fathers Don Petkash (at U of D Jesuit 1971-1980), Ken Styles (at U of D Jesuit 1994-98, Principal 1995-98), and Jack White (at U of D Jesuit 1975-76). I enjoy walking, hiking and bicycling on the paths near the school and in the nearby Cuyahoga Valley National Park.

What plans do you have for the immediate future?

I'm getting ready for an end-of-September reunion with my classmates who entered the Jesuits 60 years ago in 1954. Numbering 15, we're currently the largest class in the Chicago-Detroit province. We get together every 5 years, but the 60th will be a special.

2014 Grand Reunion Weekend

By Christopher Holinski '02

Over 330 alumni attended the 2014 Grand Reunion Weekend June 13th – 14th. Men from the classes of 1949, 1954, 1959, 1964, 1969, 1974, 1979, 1984, 1989, 1994, 1999, and 2004 spent the weekend renewing friendships, trading stories, giving updates, and having a great time.

This year the Grand Reunion Weekend started off with a Friday golf outing at Rackham Golf Course. The Alumni then enjoyed a great time in the Commons for the Friday Stag Night playing shufflepuck, taking photos in the photobooth, watching past years senior videos, and reconnecting with friends. On Saturday morning, a group of alumni and their guests enjoyed a unique perspective of the city on the Detroit Bike Tour. Special thanks, once again, to Tom O'Keefe '64 and Tim Dinan '83 for serving as tour guides. On Saturday evening, alumni and their guests attended a Mass honoring deceased classmates and this year's 50th anniversary class, class of 1964. During the reception, a group of current U of D Jesuit students offered their services as tour guides so past Cubs could take in all of the changes and improvements that have been made over the past 60 years. The alumni were able to see that The High is still turning out intelligent and articulate young men. Over dinner and drinks, the stories and memories began to flow and the Cubs felt that they were home again despite the fact that the cafeteria is now the library, the library is the Chapel again, and the famous handball courts are no more. The events lasted long into the evening and as things began to wind down and the Cubs said goodbye, it was clear that the friendships formed at 8400 South Cambridge truly do last a lifetime. The High will always be Home.

Alumni News

Br. Guy Consolmagno '70

was recently awarded the Carl Sagan Medal from the American Astronomical Society.

Damon Gupton '90

recently landed a role of a lifetime in the new series "The Divide". The show recently finished their first season on WE tv.

Benjamin Johnson '91

honored as the National IMAGE, Inc.'s Meritorious Service Award recipient for the Army. "I am humbled," said Johnson. "I have never done anything for recognition. I have just always worked hard at being professional, loyal and dedicated to my supervisors, soldiers and employees. In my career, I have received quite a few coins, but, without diminishing their significance, coins are a part of military tradition, so lots of deserving service members get them. Conversely, very few receive the National IMAGE Meritorious Service Award. But I did for doing a job that I love. That's kind of cool."

Oscar Olejniczak '91

the Head Varsity Football Coach, took 80 young men from the football program and committed a Friday to helping prep and paint pre-school classrooms at Gesu.

Susan and Kirk Metzger '96 welcomed Luke Durian on February 23, 2014. He weighed 7 lbs 13 oz and measured 21.5 inches.

Heather and Chris Bondie '97

Dan Dixon '06

recently pronounced his first vows in the Society of Jesus.

Daniel Devine III '07

and Michael Palmer '07 (Br. Samuel Devine, Franciscan T.O.R. and Mr. Michael Palmer, C.S.C.) are pursuing vocations as Catholic priests. They are pictured here at Dan's First Profession of Vows with the Franciscan Friars. Dan has taken the religious name of Brother Samuel.

George Winn '08

turned in a tremendous preseason with the Detroit Lions and was named player of the game against the Cleveland Browns. Winn recently signed with the Detroit Lions.

Jordan Morgan '09

recently signed a contract with Virtus Roma of the Italian Serie A to continue his professional basketball career.

John Santeiu '10

was featured in the Michigan Catholic on how faith played an important part of his successful diving career at Auburn University. John was a six-time All-American, the 2014 Southeastern Conference 1-meter board champion, the 2013 SEC platform champion, the 2013 NCAA Zone B diving champ, and a member of the 2013 All-SEC swim and dive first team. A major in chemistry and a minor in math, he also was named to the SEC Academic Honor Roll.

Jeremy Otto '13

won the 2014 Stretch Internet Call of the Year! Jeremy, the former voice of the Cubs, is now the voice of Marygrove Athletics.

Craig Pefley '13

committed to play hockey for the Western Collegiate Hockey Association (WCHA) champions, Ferris State University.
